

The three great Torcs were made to grasp together and com-prehend the knot that Celt had tied. In this way did they symbolise not only that all Celts understood as Celt had understood, but also that they com-prehended that they understood. This is what the Celts had to defend at all costs ~ that existence and survival are possible, but only through the existence and survival of other things.

