

Celt's granddaughter's granddaughter's great-granddaughter's son Aidan was dying, pierced by a Roman blade. He fell into the water-stone that she had made ~ he saw his soul reflecting in its patterns of interference ~ and in his hair he saw every living thing entangled.